70 words

Egor Krivonosov is a first-year master student from ITMO University, specializing in software development. He is currently a participant in the Cloud Solutions and Modeling (COM) laboratory, working on the "Code&Test" project. His primary focus is processing and analyzing errors in large code volumes to provide hints for students and teachers. In 2023, he was awarded the Selected Care Wave Scholarship for his sdLitica project, a time series analysis system.

_____

30 words

Egor Krivonosov is a first year master student from ITMO University in software development. His current research focuses on analyzing errors in a large code volumes to provide hints for students and teachers.

_____

160 signs

Future software engineer master, researcher, teacher's assistant. Java / Kotlin, Python, C# linguist, software developer, designer, esports player. Fan of doing nothing.